(3) The desirability of offering more substantial relief to the Greek Islands. It was reported that the Navy has handled this very capably on a crash basis, and that the American Red Cross, and other voluntary agencies are prepared to offer medical supplies and aid with respect to possible epidemics. The question arises as to whether the Communists might not make the propaganda charge that the supply of food to East Germany indicates a selective and political policy on the part of the United States. Consideration is being given allocating surplus agricultural products to the affected area, under the President's authorization.

4. A review of the PSB paper D-45 (Interim US Psychological Plan for Exploitation of Unrest in Satellite Europe) Weekly progress reports on the inter-departmental panel concerned with this paper have been submitted to DCI by Mr.
